The
Subscription - heading, and Subscribers names, and sums subscribed for Founding the Wayland Free Library.
(Copied.)

Wayland, Jan. 22. 1848.

We, the subscribers, do hereby severally agree to pay, on or before the 10th day of February next, the sums set against our respective names, to aid in raising the sum of Five hundred dollars; - it being the requisite condition for securing the very liberal offer of an equal sum, made by "a Friend of Wayland," - the whole to be used in purchasing a town library in such manner and under such regulations as the town may hereafter adopt.

During the past year the library has been open as usual every Saturday, with the exception of Dec. 28th, when the books were retained for examination during the following week. At that time twenty-nine books were still held in Cochituate. All were subsequently returned. The general circulation is still lessened, although many new names appear on our register, but the usefulness of any library cannot be fairly estimated by numbers, but by its results, by its influence, which should be ever broadening and cultivating in its taste for reading, and which is apparent in the selection of books from year to year. The reading of any promiscuous community will be from weak to strong, from light to heavy, if the purposes of a well selected library are attained.

The Centre grammar school has made, through its principal, a generous demand on the various subjects in our library, and has severely tested its capacity, for where a subject is to be studied the wants of a library are made apparent. Much as we have in the lines of history, biography and of general subjects, much more is needed to supply the demand. Our resources are inadequate to furnish them, but we trust the day is not far distant when our yearly appropriation will be increased. We would keep pace with the desire for knowledge, if we cannot supply the demand for the latest popular story. We would keep abreast of the times, not to emphasize too strongly the natural desire to compare favorably with our neighboring and much younger libraries.

Our books have been examined with care, and we find them marred more than usual by pencil marks, comments in color and lead, the persons committing these irregularities seeming to be unmindful of the act (quoted below) of which penalty everyone is liable who receives books from any public library.

Extract from the Public Laws, chapter 59, acts of 1867:

"Whoever wilfully and maliciously writes upon, injures, defaces, tears, or destroys any book, plate, picture, engraving or statue belonging to any law, town, city or other public library, shall be punished by a fine not less than five dollars nor more than one thousand dollars for every such offence."

Very few books have been returned from Cochituate without cards the past year, which is a marked improvement, and we hope all our patrons will remember that in order to facilitate prompt service to all that a habit, not occasional, but constant, will be observed of presenting the card with a well filled column of new numbers and one column for the old books, thus preventing detention in serving those who are waiting while a person selects single numbers again

LIBRARY TRUSTEES' REPORT.

The Trustees of the Public Library herewith present their annual report for the year ending Feb. 28, 1894.

On the first of the present year the Library was inspected by the Trustees, and found in commendable condition, as far as the care and duties of the Librarian were concerned.

It has been difficult to warm the library room in the most inclement weather of the winter season for only one day in the week, after the rooms and the books they contain have been thoroughly chilled through the remaining six days.

We have had the present wood-furnace put in complete repair to improve its heating capacity, and the result seems to be but a partial success.

Six years have elapsed since the fourth supplement to the library catalogue was printed, and another should be printed to give the readers the full benefit to be derived from the accessions to the library during that period.

This is a longer time than has elapsed between the issuing of either two of our previous consecutive supplements.

An appropriation for this object is necessary.

For details of our purchases, reference may be made to the Librarian's report and to the list printed in the town reports.

To the foregoing statistics, which give a fairly good account of the Library workings for the year ending Dec. 31, 1893, it is hardly necessary to append any lengthy written statement. While our Library has not done the work which might be expected of it in an unusually intelligent community, it is steadily accomplishing some good work in the generation which is growing up. The schools are hampered in the obtaining of books by the fact that the Library is closed on the days when the schools are in session, but, with a little consultation and a few book-lists of such as are needed, it is certain that broader work could be done, and our deficient departments more speedily filled with books specially useful to the teachers.

The want of a supplement is more keenly felt as each year adds lists attainable only from the tablets, at present crowded with six years' accessions. The perusal of the catalogue at home, at one's leisure, is the only way to insure a decided increase in circulation.

Our magazine literature is gradually assuming substantial proportions. By Mrs. Charles A. Cutting's generous gift of "Harper's Monthly" for six years, and Mrs. Warren G. Roby's valuable contribution of "North American," "Century," and "Scribner's," six years combined, it is essentially strengthened.

The pamphlets so generously given by the Misses Loring are "Littell's" magazines, and are a very valuable addition to our shelves, being nearly twenty consecutive years of the magazine in perfect condition. Those given by Mrs. Rice are "Harper's" and "Century"; those by Mrs. Heard, "Atlantics," "Every Saturdays," and "Young Folks."

Our past Library year has been an unusually quiet one. The Library has been open as usual, with one exception, the books being held for examination two weeks instead of one, on account of the illness of the Librarian. Every book was accounted for. They were returned with more than usual promptness, especially from Cochituate.

Our circulation, in which every community should feel a certain responsibility, has substantially decreased. In this our year has been a disappointing one. The removal of so many families from Cochituate would naturally reduce our circulation in that district. We record a comparatively small number of accessions, but we have placed some very valuable works before our readers for reference as well as for circulation. Such works as "Sir Geo. Grove's Dictionary of Music," in four volumes, "Memoir of John Murray," in two volumes, "The Mining of the West," by Theo. Roosevelt, John Fisk's "American Revolution," Lippincott's Latest Gazetteer and Biographical Dictionary, with many others of equal value and importance. We have resumed the circulation of our magazines, although they are far from presentable. Many numbers are imperfect, and to remedy the defect will be a great expense if the matter is not promptly taken in hand. Happily there has been very little demand for them. If those interested in our magazine literature would kindly contribute their stray Harper's, Centuries or St Nicholas, even if it were but a single magazine, it would be of material assistance to the Library, in renovating our dilapidated copies more speedily.

It is refreshing to note with what interest and regularity our juvenile department is called upon, and our percentage does not overrate it. Our library is more than fairly developed in the direction of books suitable for children's reading, not necessarily juveniles, but books which will interest and teach them unconsciously some of the noblest lessons in life.

Want of room, which we had good reason to hope would be attended to, continues to present a troublesome dilemma. Other minor conditions remain unchanged.
